Dominion Conference At London Discusses Plans For Inter-Empire Trade

Protectorate And Mandated Territories Increasingly Important To All Britain, Secretary For Colonies Tells Premiers

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 3.—Replying to Sir Philip Lloyd-Greame's speech at the opening of the Imperial Economic Conference yesterday, Mr. Innes laid stress on India's almost limitless potentialities as a market.

General Smuts contended that Britain was able to give the Dominions such additional preference on a number of articles as to assist tremendously in developing the Empire's resources without departing from her settled fiscal policy of not taxing foodstuffs and essential raw materials. The South African Prime Minister intimated the willingness of the Union to re-shape its policy in order to make preference mutually beneficial. He urged the importance of developing the African continent, which was capable of producing practically all the raw materials Britain needed.

Mr. Mackenzie King advocated removal of Government control of industry as far as possible to enable movement of men and money throughout the Empire.

Mr. Massey emphasised that migration and preference went together. There were many overseas countries, not merely Dominions but Crown Colonies, with a very sparse European population, producing a very small proportion as compared with what they ought to produce.

The Prime Minister of New Zealand insisted on greater preference to encourage production.

Mr. Ormsby-Gore, on behalf of the Colonies and Protectorates, pointed out that this was the first time they were represented in the course of a summary of facts impressing their importance.

The Under-Secretary of State for the Colonies showed that their population exceeded 50,000,000. He dwelt on their enormous potentialities as sources of supply of raw materials and markets for imports. He declared that Britain was specially alive to the need for becoming less dependent upon America for cotton, sugar and tobacco.

Mr. Ormsby-Gore mentioned as an example of the diversion of Empire products that hardly an ounce of opium from Samoa had been shipped by British. Practically all was bought by Hamburg and utilised by Germany.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 3.—The Imperial Conference sat for two and a half hours today. The meeting was chiefly occupied by a statement by the Duke of Devonshire on the progress and development of the Crown Colonies and mandated territories, and speeches by the Dominion representatives on the subject, but it is understood that Mr. Marquess Curzon's statement, on

INDIAN MUST PAY DEATH PENALTY FOR SEA MURDER

Hoosien Found Guilty In British Court

TO BE HANGED

"Dr. Jekyll And Mr. Hyde" Plea Fails

Sir Skinner Turner, Chief Judge, late yesterday sentenced Shagamon S. K. Hoosien, Indian fireman on the s.s. Macedonia, to be hung by the neck until dead for the murder of Shadoo Currin, a fellow fireman on the same vessel.

Hoosien was sentenced to death by the Chief Judge after the jury in his second trial—the jury in the first trial disagreed—had brought in a verdict of guilty after half an hour's deliberation, despite the plea of the Indian that he had been eating bang and had no recollection of anything that had occurred at the time.

The Indian's defense was the same as in the first trial, when he insisted that if he had killed Currin it was while he was under the influence of the bang and he was not responsible for his actions. His counsel also pleaded for acquittal on the ground that there was no direct evidence that Hoosien had killed Currin and that even if he had it was done while Hoosien was, to all purposes, another person, a sort of Indian "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

Hoosien was found guilty of having murdered Currin while they were passengers on the Macedonia returning to India from Japan where they took the s.s. Banco for the P. & O. steamship line. He stabbed him several times with a pocket knife on the fo'castle deck of the steamer after a quarrel and confessed the crime to his officers a few moments afterward.

The jury chosen was composed of Mr. A. T. Downie, Mr. V. H. Bourne, Mr. N. Dennison, Mr. E. C. James, Mr. G. L. Campbell, Mr. A. Akehurst, Mr. C. H. Rutherford, Mr. F. T.

JAPANESE WOMAN KILLS 4 CHILDREN, TAKES OWN LIFE

Tragedy Occurs In Sequel To Japan's Catastrophe

Crazed in the belief that her husband had perished in the Japanese earthquake, Mrs. Moritane Naoki, a young Japanese woman Tuesday night killed her four children by cutting their jugular veins with a knife and then killed herself with the same knife, in her home on Jakong Road, off North Szechuen Road.

The tragedy was made public yesterday by the Japanese authorities after they had completed a searching inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the woman's mad act.

Mrs. Naoki, who was 27 years old, has been suffering from mental worry that has gradually grown into insanity since the first news of the earthquake was received in Shanghai a month ago. At the time of the catastrophe both her husband and her parents were in the Japanese capital, and after a considerable period elapsed without word from them Mr. Naoki went to Japan to search for them.

NO WORD

More time passed and still Mrs. Naoki received no word from her husband and under the strain she evolved a fanciful theory that her husband had also been killed.

About 6 o'clock Tuesday evening she called her Chinese amah and gave her a dollar to take to an exchange shop. While the amah was absent she killed her four children, two boys, 6 and 3, and two girls, 2 and 4, by cutting their jugular veins with a knife, and then inflicted wounds on herself from which she died almost instantly.

When the amah returned she found the five bodies and immediately raised an alarm. Neighbors called a doctor but his services were not needed.

The tragedy occurred in Chinese territory and the investigation was handled by the Chinese police and the Japanese Consular authorities, who are still attempting to get in touch with the husband. He is known to be safe, but the parents of both were killed in the earthquake.

Forty Shops Burn During Outbreak In Wayside District

Lack Of Water Facilities Hampers Fire Department

Between thirty and forty Chinese houses were burned and considerable adjacent property was threatened by fire which broke out early last evening near the junction of East Seward and Kungking Roads. Bad water facilities were responsible, it is held, for the extent of the damage and it was stated by witnesses last night that only the most strenuous efforts of the Fire Department prevented a further spread of the destruction.

Hongkew division was first on the scene and found four shops ablaze to the east of Kungking Road. Mats and bamboo superstructure facilitated the spread of the flames and it was deemed necessary to call for more equipment, which was supplied from Central station. Hydrants, however, were found to be lacking, particularly as needed for fighting the fire from the back of the affected block, and thus the flames raged through three terraces of shacks. The buildings were all of wooden construction, and hence very difficult to save.

That the attitude of the Japanese officials had materially changed may be emphasised by the remarks of some of the said officials, continued the speaker.

"When Admiral Anderson called on Premier Yamamoto," the Premier said: "Out of Japan's distress has come a realisation of the friendship of America and other nations in our hour of need."

One vernacular newspaper, referring to the British and American fleets in Yokohama harbor stated: "They have despatched a part of the squadron under their command to the headquarters where our fleet is located and will receive orders from our government. They issued orders to meet the emergency on their own responsibility. An unparalleled situation has developed. The fleets are co-operating as if they were the fleet of a single country. This situation has moved our navy in a pronounced manner."

"As to the condition of Yokohama and Tokio, you have all read the newspaper accounts and there is little that I can add that would be news to you. Yokohama no longer exists. Here and there

POWERS STAND FIRM ON FIRST LINCHENG NOTE

Brigands Are Still Unchecked, Diplomatic Corps Points Out To Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 4.—The Diplomatic Corps today, answering China's note of September 29, says that it is glad to note that the Government and people are not actuated by anti-foreign feeling, but the facts irrefutably establish that the Lincheng outrage was directed against foreigners in order to bring pressure to bear on the Chinese Government through the Legations.

This bandits have accomplished. Their method was copied from the Honan bandits in 1922, and has been imitated since by the brigands who murdered Father Melotte, and more recently by the bandits who carried off two foreign women to an unknown fate. The authorities are not manifesting zeal in the repression of brigandage, which is still rife in most provinces, while troops are employed in civil wars.

Therefore the Diplomatic Body, mindful of the necessity of assuring respect for the life, liberty and property of foreigners and restoration of order in China maintain in its entirety the Note of August 10, and call on China to execute the measures indicated in it.

Peace Time Activities Of U. S. Navy Described By Col. Miller To Rotarians

What the United States Navy is doing for public welfare in time of peace with special reference to the relief work by the Asiatic Squadron during the Japanese disaster formed the theme of an interesting address given yesterday by Colonel E. B. Miller, Intelligent Officer, attached to Admiral Anderson's Pacific Squadron, before the weekly tiffin of the Rotary Club at the Astor House.

After showing how the navy renders physical protection to foreign trade, initiates trade through diplomacy, furnishes standard time to transportation interests, procures accurate navigational charts, sailing directions, light ships, notice to mariners, pilot charts, mine warnings and how it assists in the development of heavy machinery and industrial research, the speaker spoke upon the service rendered during the recent disaster in Japan.

"We have all heard for years; books have been written; articles published, and so called foreign critics and experts have discussed the next war between the United States and Japan, said Col. Miller in part. "Remarks have already been made and will be in the near future, many more articles will probably be written, to the effect, that the response of the Asiatic Fleet and the American people in general, in their assistance to Japan, was partly a political move, as we express it here 'face pigdin'."

However, I can assure you that the one and only thought that came into the minds of Admiral Anderson and every officer connected with the movement of our fleet was service to the Japanese in their hour of need."

Colonel Miller then described the efforts of the American Asiatic Squadron in relieving the distressed in Japan and asserted that the attitude of the Japanese at first towards such efforts was rather difficult to describe. At first they were somewhat suspicious of the motive and appeared to be unable to understand why so large a force should have come. Martial law being declared it was only natural that activities on shore should be controlled by the Japanese authorities. After 16 days of intensive relief work, Admiral Anderson realising that the emergency had passed, necessary supplies of all kinds had arrived or were to arrive in Yokohama, Colonel Miller said, decided that the American navy's participation in the relief work was at an end and sailed for Shanghai on September 21.

"That the attitude of the Japanese officials had materially changed may be emphasised by the remarks of some of the said officials," continued the speaker.

"When Admiral Anderson called on Premier Yamamoto," the Premier said: "Out of Japan's distress has come a realisation of the friendship of America and other nations in our hour of need."

One vernacular newspaper, referring to the British and American fleets in Yokohama harbor stated: "They have despatched a part of the squadron under their command to the headquarters where our fleet is located and will receive orders from our government. Construction of ships has increased to 416,000 tons in 1922 and 333,000 tons in 1923. The increase in the German merchant marine since the Armistice is equal to about 300,000,000 francs. Motor Chits For Stranded Sailors Spurred By Consul
Necessities Only Will Be Paid For, British Official Says

(Reuters Pacific Service) Manila, Sept. 30.—Automobiles, safety razors and movie cameras are not within the category of necessities that may be furnished to indigent seamen stranded in Manila by the local government at least not for British seamen, the local British Consul has informed the customs department. Warning to provincial and municipal governments against incurring expense on behalf of stranded or distressed foreign seamen, other than that covering absolute needs, has been issued by the Department of the Interior as a result of refusal of the British Consulate to assume responsibility for such expenditures.

In the Philippines local governments have jurisdiction over points where foreign seamen are stranded, and usually extend help in the form of food and clothing, later sending the bill to the consulate which has charge of the affairs of the country from which the seamen come, for reimbursement.

In the recent case, however, not only was food and lodging furnished, but some trills were added. The British Consul's report says: "I would like to take this opportunity of pointing out that the account of the provincial Treasury contains items such as safety razors, motor car rides and cinematograph tickets, for which responsibility is not accepted in principle by this Consulate."

Big Real Estate Deal Brings Department Store To Fore Here

The new building, it is understood, will be one of the handsomest and most up-to-date structures in the main street district. It is to be operated as a large department store by the Sun Sun Company. The negotiations for the deal were carried through by Mr. N. Fred Nelson.

ELECTION WILL BE HELD TODAY PEKING THINKS

Tsao Kun All Set For Entry Into Capital As New President

(Reuters Pacific Service) Peking, Oct. 4.—The Presidential election is expected to occur tomorrow. More than 500 Members of Parliament have received their cheques through intermediaries while a mandate prolonging the existence of Parliament will be issued this evening.

The resignation of Mr. Wang Keh-ming, Governor of the Bank of China, was accepted by the Board of Directors yesterday. Mr. Chin Huang will probably succeed Mr. Wang.

(Reuters Pacific Service) Peking, Oct. 1.—Certain M.P.'s, whose number is not inconsiderable, take the view that the Presidential election should take place any date after October 10 which means that the prolongation of the tenure of office of Parliament follows as a matter of course.

General Wang Cheng-ping and General Hsiung Ping-chi and the Cabinet officers have written to Parliament requesting it to carry out the Presidential election and guaranteeing Parliament's continued existence after the election. Apparently M.P.'s fear that once the election is completed the authorities might have no further use for their services.

(Eastern News Agency) Peking, Oct. 4.—It has been definitely decided that the Presidential election meeting will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

(Eastern News Agency) Peking, Oct. 4.—Rumor has it that Marshal Tsao Kun is now making preparations for his immediate entry into the capital in case he is elected President, having the intention to leave the Office of Inspector-General of Chihli, Shantung, and Honan in the hands of the chief of his general staff for the present, and to appoint General Wang Cheng-ping and General Tso Jui as Tsuchun and Civil Governor of Chihli Province respectively.

Five More Miners Are Saved After Long Entombment

Persistence Of Rescue Party Members Is Rewarded

(Reuters Service) London, Oct. 4.—The persistence of the rescuers at the Redding pit was rewarded at three this morning, after all hope had been abandoned, by the recovery alive of five miners, all of them in good condition.

The rescues were the result of ten days' gigantic toll of digging through the debris in the direction of the elevation of the pit known as Spionkop. Here they found the five miners huddled together, on all fours like frogs. All except one are in comparatively good physical condition. They kept themselves alive with water and were cheered by sounds of blasting and boring during the last four days.

Hongkong Must Still Keep Opium Monopoly, Governor Tells Council

So Long As China Continues To Grow Poppy In Great Quantities There Is No Prospect Of Abandoning It, He Declares

(Reuters Pacific Service) Hongkong, Oct. 4.—The Governor of Hongkong, presenting the 1924 budget to the Legislative Council, said that estimates of the revenue and expenditure disclose the very satisfactory condition of the finances of the Colony. The actual revenue balance from 1923 is over $12,500,000. For 1924 the revenue is estimated at $21,369,934 and expenditure at $24,924,667. Arrangements have been made for a geological survey of the Colony to be undertaken by officers of the University of British Columbia. Commencement will be made with the new Salingan Valley waterworks scheme which is estimated to cost at least $17,000,000.

The Governor said: "The longer I live in this Colony the more firmly I am convinced of the wisdom of the policy of expending on works development as large sums as can be adequately employed during the year."

Referring to the estimated revenue of $25,000,000 from opium, the Governor remarked that it depends not on the economic but on the political conditions external to the Colony. For a long time past it has been recognised that the Colony must make up its mind to lose eventually any income from opium. Although Hongkong is probably as lightly taxed as any place in the world, we today are in a position in which we could face a loss of all the revenue from opium without becoming involved in serious financial difficulties. It depends on China when the revenue from opium will cease. Although we do our utmost by maintaining a costly preventive force and by giving handsome rewards for seizures, enormous quantities of smuggled opium are continually found here.

If the legitimate supply were withdrawn it is certain that illicit supplies would take its place. We might perhaps be able to deal effectively with the opium from India and Persia but we cannot so deal with the opium which is being produced in China in such enormous quantities that it can be sold here at a mere fraction of the price of Government opium.

So long as China continues to grow opium in great quantities, I see no prospect of our being able to abandon the Government monopoly. In the meantime we will frame our estimate with a spirit of optimism in the hope that perhaps the coming year will see the end of the long drawn out struggles of China and that that great nation may be able to devote to the eradication of its national vice some part of the energies and resources which have so long been wasted in useless fratricidal strife.

DEMAND FOR LAND
With regard to the enormous demand for land which much exceed the supply, the Governor remarked that it is agreed on all sides that this demand is the direct result of the unfortunate dissensions in South China which resulted in great sums of money being brought for safe refuge in Hongkong instead of being employed in trade operations. There can be no doubt that the boom in land cannot last indefinitely. The Governor foresees the end of the boom in the coming year for two reasons, that order may be restored in the neighboring provinces in China and trade resume its normal course.

If the recent deplorable state of disorder continues it cannot be long before Southern China reaches a stage of complete exhaustion with the result that not only no more Chinese money will seek investment in Hongkong but the prosperity of the Colony will suffer a severe check.

The Governor of Hongkong concluded by alluding to the military lands question and said: "I am not taking a too optimistic view in thinking that my term of office may be marked by the removal of this serious obstacle to the proper development of the city of Victoria."

COST OF LIVING IN PHILIPPINES MOVING UPWARD

Commodity Prices Show Trend To Higher Level Report Says

(Reuters Pacific Service) Manila, Sept. 30.—Prices of commodities of prime necessity have gone upward since August 14, last, according to a report compiled by the Bureau of Labor from figures obtained by its inspectors at public markets in Manila. These increased prices of the principal foodstuffs will reflect upon the cost of living of the laboring class in particular, declared Acting Director of Labor Cruz.

Increases on rice between August 14 and September 14 were 11 percent on first class, seven percent on the second and two percent on the third. Other foodstuffs quoted at higher prices include beef, pork, chickens, fish, native beans, small tomatoes, onions, sugar, papaya and sardines.

Profiteers have taken advantage of the recent disaster in Japan to elevate the price of rice in view of the possible scarcity of the cereal by reason of the temporary deviation of imports to this country from Saigon.

Hongkong Tables Report On Hoarding

(Reuters Pacific Service) Hongkong, Oct. 4.—The Housing Commission's report has been tabled by the Legislative Council. The Commissioners recommend, inter alia, firstly, continuance of the Rents Restriction Ordinance until the supply of houses meets the demand, secondly, that the Government should forbid by legislation demolition and reconstruction of houses in good or fair condition and, thirdly, the creation of reservations for all sections of the community.

Happy To Report!
Editor, THE CHINA PRESS:
Dear Sir: I see that my name, with that of my wife and two daughters, is again included in the list of those dead or missing during the recent quake in Japan according to the list published in your paper of Saturday, Sept. 29th. As I am receiving inquiries from friends as to the truth of this report I will appreciate it very much if you will again make notice in your paper that "Dr. and Mrs. Nelson Bell and two daughters" are safe and well at Tsingkiangpu. We left Japan nine days before the quake. Appreciating your courtesy and trouble. Very truly yours, L. Nelson Bell, M. D.

SEISMOSCOPES Pheasants Crow When The Earth Shimmies!

Japanese pheasants reported by Dr. F. Omori as being excellent seismoscopes are no joke.

For now comes Father Saderna Maso, acting director of the weather bureau of Manila who, in a statement says that "altogether in approximately 50 percent (of the cases reported by Dr. Omori) the pheasant has felt the earthquake motion better than I could while sitting quietly in the depth of night!"

The padre says: "For public information let us summarise the last results of three years observations, 1912-1916, made by the eminent Japanese seismologist Dr. F. Omori and published in March, 1923."

"The comparison of the time of earthquake occurrence and the instant of the pheasant crowing in the 23 cases above described is as follows:

(I). 5 cases. The perception of the earthquake motion was nearly simultaneous with the crowing of the pheasant.
(II). 7 cases. The pheasant crowed previous to the occurrence of the sensible earthquake motion.
(III). 4 cases. The pheasant crowed, but the earthquake motion was too small to be sensible.
(IV). 5 cases. The pheasant crowed later than the arrival of the sensible earthquake motion.
(V). 1 case. The earthquake was sensible, but the pheasant did not crow.

"Thus, (I), in 20 percent out of the total number of cases, the pheasant crowed almost simultaneously with the sensible earthquake motion. (II), in 34 percent the pheasant crowed earlier than the occurrence of the sensible motion, the time difference varying up to 8.0 sec. with the mean value of 3.6 sec. (III), in 20 percent the pheasant crowed even in cases in which the earthquake motion was too small to be sensible to us. Altogether in approximately 50 percent, (II) and (III) combined, the pheasant has felt the earthquake motion better than I could while sitting quietly in the depth of night."

SEISMOSCOPES Pheasants Crow When The Earth Shimmies!

Japanese pheasants reported by Dr. F. Omori as being excellent seismoscopes are no joke.

For now comes Father Saderna Maso, acting director of the weather bureau of Manila who, in a statement says that "altogether in approximately 50 percent (of the cases reported by Dr. Omori) the pheasant has felt the earthquake motion better than I could while sitting quietly in the depth of night!"

The padre says: "For public information let us summarise the last results of three years observations, 1912-1916, made by the eminent Japanese seismologist Dr. F. Omori and published in March, 1923."

"The comparison of the time of earthquake occurrence and the instant of the pheasant crowing in the 23 cases above described is as follows:

(I). 5 cases. The perception of the earthquake motion was nearly simultaneous with the crowing of the pheasant.
(II). 7 cases. The pheasant crowed previous to the occurrence of the sensible earthquake motion.
(III). 4 cases. The pheasant crowed, but the earthquake motion was too small to be sensible.
(V). 1 case. The earthquake was sensible, but the pheasant did not crow.

"Thus, (I), in 20 percent out of the total number of cases, the pheasant crowed almost simultaneously with the sensible earthquake motion. (II), in 34 percent the pheasant crowed earlier than the occurrence of the sensible motion, the time difference varying up to 8.0 sec. with the mean value of 3.6 sec. (III), in 20 percent the pheasant crowed even in cases in which the earthquake motion was too small to be sensible to us. Altogether in approximately 50 percent, (II) and (III) combined, the pheasant has felt the earthquake motion better than I could while sitting quietly in the depth of night."

GOVERNMENT'S AID SUSTAINS JAPAN BANKS

Lifting Of Moratorium Brings
No Rush To Withdraw
Deposits

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Tokyo, Oct. 3.—Bank clear-
ances during September totalled Yen. 100,000,000 as compared with Yen. 3,318,000,000, in August and Yen. 3,171,000,000,
in July.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Osaka, Oct. 3.—The lifting of the moratorium has not resulted
in any rush to withdraw deposits,
though the banks were fully prepared for the emergency, and the financial market remains normal,
calm and not tighter than before
the earthquake, inspiring confidence in the prospect of a steady
recovery.

One of the most influential bankers here, interviewed by Reuter's correspondent today,
said that this was in a large measure due to the Government's guarantee of Yen. 100,000,000,
to the Bank of Japan against
losses in re-discounting bills,
whereby within the next two
years, all bills might be liquidated, new demands met and the wounds inflicted by the catastrophe healed. He expressed the opinion that the Government's plan, which was at present being discussed, to assist through industrial and hypothec banks the smaller industries and individuals
desiring to rebuild their houses,
respectively, would further speed
up recovery. Regarding the devastated areas, he concurred in the opinion, commonly held in business circles, that industrial reconstruction, which was necessary and possible without a foreign loan, should precede any
elaborate town-planning schemes,
which was likely to prove too
costly and burdensome. He could not say whether the Government intended to raise a foreign loan. If it did, it was his opinion that it would be for the purchase of materials only.
Reuter's informant considered
that a boom was unlikely, as, in spite of a probable increase, the money surplus would be absorbed
in the issue of domestic bonds.

Rotarians Hear Col. Miller On Navy Activities

you see a building apparently
intact, but on close inspection you find that it has been entirely
gutted by fire and cracked and ready to tumble down. Only two buildings in the entire city of Yokohama escaped, and both of these were down by the railway station between the canal and the elevated tracks.

"In Tokyo the area burned was
similar to that in Yokohama,
simply flat, but here and there in
the burned area you would find
buildings that were apparently uninjured. For example, the Yokohama Club was undamaged
and yet the building next to it, a few hundred feet away, was almost completely demolished. There have been many estimates of the number of dead and injured, but I doubt if a correct, or anywhere
near a correct estimate, is ever made. The last report is 225,000
dead. In Yokohama, along Motomachi, due to the congested district
and it being in between the canal
and the bluff, which crumbled
down on it, I believe, it is safe
to say that at least 15,000 were killed, as they had absolutely no chance to escape. In Tokyo, in one of the army arsenals, it is reported that from 10,000 to 32,000 took refuge and all of them
were burned to death. The canals,
bay and every body of water in
and around Yokohama were covered with floating bodies, of
which no record was or could be made.

"I visited Tokyo and Yokohama
on several occasions, and it was remarkable to me to note the reaction of the men, women and children wandering through the ruins
looking for their valuables, and in the rice lines, all with a smile on their faces and apparently no
worry of tomorrow or the future.

"And so we see another example
of the service rendered by the navy in time of peace. In this case it was not service to our own nationals but to a foreigner and
the action of the British and American Asiatic Fleets during
the greatest catastrophe in modern times, will go down in history as one of the greatest examples of
unasked for, unsolicited, service
rendered by the navy."

"The meeting yesterday was presided by president W. J.
Hawkins. The next meeting will be closed to members only and will be held at the Astor again.

Indian Must Pay Death Penalty For Sea Murder

Renwick, Mr. V. Harding, Mr. T.
W. Scarborough, Mr. D. Fleming,
and Mr. R. L. Hope. None were challenged.

The Crown Advocate, Mr. H. P.
Wilkinson, opened the case for the prosecution by making a statement concerning the nature
of the crime in which he stated that the jury did not need to
burden their minds with the question of intent. Had the dead
man survived, he said, the accused
would have been charged with intent to do grievous bodily harm. Since he had died the man
was charged with murder.

MASKEE MOTIVE

On the question of motive, Mr.
Wilkinson said that it was no
affair of the prosecution to prove the motive. If they proved that Hoosen had killed Currin that was sufficient. He anticipated that the defense would be that the accused would plead that he
was under the influence of drugs,
but the evidence showed that
after the crime had been committed he had walked and talked
and otherwise acted as though he knew what he was doing.

Mr. E. W. Carpenter, representative of the P. and O. Company, Mr. J. Evans of the Gutzlaf,
a mortuary coiffe and a river
policeman then were called and
gave similar evidence to that they gave at the first trial. Under cross examination by Mr. McDonald the river policeman said that he had thought the accused started to smoke a cigarette in the small boat when he was being brought ashore. He did not know that it was some product of India
hep. It looked like an ordinary cigarette.

BREAKS DOWN

Sgt. George Craig of the Municipal Police was next called and
said that he was present when
the accused was charged and cautioned by Sub-Inspector Yorke—who is now in hospital and could not
testify—and that he broke down
and said "How is he? How is he?
I don't know." Accused was quite normal until he was charged,
he said, although he became
incoherent then.

Dr. Bolton was then called for medical testimony and gave details as to the post mortem he
made on the body of the decessated. Asked if the wounds could have been self-inflicted he said
they could have been but the man
that did it would have been a maniac.

Replying to Mr. McDonald, the doctor said the knife was a rather large pocket knife—a very common one. He knew that Indian hemp or hashish and several other similar products were taken by Indians—eaten, smoked, drunk
or taken hypodermically. The ordinary effects of taking Indian
hemp was first to produce a state
of pleasurable excitement, followed by a condition of lethargy
and sleep. At a later stage it would produce frenzy and would sometimes produce a violent homicidal nature. When a man was under the influence of that drug he might have hallucinations or de-lusions. Excessive doses of the drug might produce a condition
of mania which was permanent.

Mr. McDonald—And also may produce a state of intoxication
which, I put it to you, may only
last 24 hours or less?

Witness—Yes.
Mr. McDonald—When a man
not under the influence of any drug whatever, if he is awakened out of his sleep he is in a fully conscious state and will do things without knowing what he is doing?

Witness—Yes, that sometimes
does happen.

Sir Skinner—Are you suggest-

ing this about all of us?
Mr. McDonald—Yes.
Mr. McDonald—Are you familiar with the case of the man who suddenly woke up and murdered
his wife?

Witness—No. I should think
he was not very sane.

FAMOUS CASE

Mr. McDonald quoted the case
in question. He said it was reported in Taylor's Medical Jurisprudence. It was a case where
a man woke up in the night and
thinking his wife was a demon,
murdered her. He quoted that case because it was held that the man was not conscious of his actions.

Mr. McDonald—I think you will agree with me that Indian
hemp is the most potent of all forms of intoxications, is it not?

Witness—That is a very sweeping statement. I would not like to say that.

Mr. McDonald—Well, say a very potent?

Witness—Yes, it is a very potent drug.

In re-examination by Mr. Wilkinson, witness said that he was not asked to examine the accused
as to whether or not he was a smoker of bang.

Witness—No.
Mr. Wilkinson—If the man
had taken one dose of hashish on August 30, what would you expect to happen?

Witness—The effect of a single dose is loss of consciousness and collapse.

So you would expect him to be able to walk and talk in a normal
manner?—The drug on the whole
is a narcotic drug, but the ordinary effect of the drug is one
of depression, not stimulating;
finally it becomes maniacal.

You remember the extraordinary case of the man who killed
his wife, thinking she was a demon?—I should think he was a heavy drinker, probably.

Do you remember the case of Tinker and R. V. Milligan when the man put up the same excuse
and was found guilty?—No.

Sir Skinner—What I understand you to say is, whatever the effect of this drug may be, if it comes to the stage where a man
is maniacal and does acts of violence, you would first of all expect that state of mind to recur?

Witness—To be either permanent, or recur.

Sir Skinner—You would not expect a man to do his acts of violence and within an hour or two to be perfectly rational?

Witness—No, I would not expect that.

ON THE SHIP

Mr. C. W. Nelson, chief engineer
on the s.s. Banca, said that he was on the fore-castle deck of the Macedonia and had found the dead man lying on the deck. He had spoken in Hindustani demanding to know who had stabbed him
and the accused had stepped forward, he said, and confessed. He was quite normal, he continued,
and said that he had stabbed him
because the dead man had used bad language toward him. He had noticed blood on the man's clothing, he said, but at that time
had seen no knife. A little later
the accused had handed him a
pocket knife, with the blade closed,
and he had opened it to see
the blade. He had found no
blood on it—it was in the same condition it was now, slightly rusty.

Mr. Burge, chief officer of the

seen blood stains on the man's clothing. As far as he knew he said there was no smoking or eating of drugs among the crew.
It was prohibited, he added.

Mr. F. G. C. Walker, analyst
of the S.M.C. testified concerning
an examination of the blood stains
found on the accused's clothing.
He had also tested the knife
blade for bloodstains, he said, but had found none. If the bloodstains had been allowed to stay
on since the tragedy they would still be there, he said, and because of the rusty condition of the knife he was of the opinion
that any stains could not have been merely wiped off.

Senhor Gomes To Take Office Today

within the limits of my duties, I shall do everything I can to maintain the stability of the Anglo-Portuguese Alliance.

"I have firm faith in the future
of Portugal, which is peaceful and well-governed. Like other nations that fought in the war, we have had our difficulties since 1913.
I think I can say that the Portuguese have met these with courage. At any rate, we have drawn inspiration from the manner
in which our friends have met theirs."

Senhor Gomes, who belongs to
an old and distinguished family—
his grandfather was an officer in Napoleon's armies—has had a
many-sided career.

For several years he was an artistic and freelance journalist in Lisbon. Then for two decades he travelled in Europe Africa and the East. For several months he lived among the Tuaregs—the veiled and mysterious people of the North African deserts. Meanwhile
he wrote novels and plays, as well
as books on art and travel.

Senhor Manuel Teixeira Gomes
was born in Algarve, the South and sunny Province of Portugal, and was, before the Republic, a very important business man and ex-
porter in Portimao.

Inter-Imperial Trade Plans Are Debated At London

foreign policy on Friday will not be published.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 3.—In the course
of his speech at today's session
of the Imperial Conference, the Duke of Devonshire emphasised
that the moral and material progress and development of the Colonies, Protectorates and mandated territories were becoming increasingly important to all the partners of the British Empire.
The Colonial Office were constantly endeavoring to foster interest among the Dominions in
the Empire to stimulate inter-Imperial trade. The Colonies and Protectorates were still suffering
from trade depression, but they were generally pulling through.

The financial position of some of the smaller colonies was a constant source of anxiety, but there were indications that the larger Colonial areas, for which the Colonial Office was responsible,
were recovering. Much, however,
remained to be done before trade
in the Colonies became satisfactory, and we must look to inter-Imperial trade to regain at least
a part of the ground lost in recent years. Proposals would be submitted to the Imperial Economic Conference with the object
of increasing inter-Imperial trade
with the tropical possessions and fostering their development, but
the action of the Governments
must be reinforced by private capital and enterprise. The Ronaldshay Committee was exploring this all-important aspect of the question.

The Secretary of State for the Colonies said that he was glad to report that the economic depression
in Malaya, especially in tin
and rubber, seemed to be passing.
The revenue had improved and
the financial stringency had to some extent been relieved. He pointed out that the £10,000,000
loan had been entirely applied to Malay States purposes. The Straits Settlements itself had emerged from a severe period of adversity without having had to borrow for its own purposes. Of all parts of the Empire, Hongkong
had probably emerged from the recent acute trade depression
with the least loss and suffering.

owing to the fact that as the entrepot of South China she had profited from every branch of the huge and varied export trade of China, as well as its European imports. It was also true that the political unrest in China had diverted much wealth and capital
to the neighboring British Colony,
in which the merchants and well-
to-do classes of China had implicit confidence.

The Duke of Devonshire anticipated that the British Empire
Exhibition would open the eyes
of the world to the tremendous resources of the British Empire.
After reviewing the progress
of the Colonies, Protectorates and mandated territories since the last Imperial Conference, the speaker concluded by welcoming any advice and counsel from any delegate in handling of the large
and complex responsibilities of the Colonial Office.

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 4.—Last night's function in honor of the members of the Imperial Conference was a banquet at the Mansion House given by the London Chamber of Commerce,
which was attended by 350 guests.

The Duke of Devonshire, replying to the toast of the Economic Conference, declared that, as the Empire had proved the greatest war organisation in history, so
today it was the greatest organization known to history for the preservation of the peace of the world.

Mr. Burton (South Africa)
emphasised that it was essential
for the Conference to observe the principle that each part of the Empire should retain the right to frame its own fiscal policy.
Any departure therefrom would
strike a severe blow at the unity
of the Empire.

Viscount Peel, responding to
the toast of the Empire overseas,
expressed the opinion that there was no need for anxiety that the trade of Britain to India would be diminished.

SEAMAN NOT GUILTY OF THEFT OF UNDERWEAR

Judge Lobingier Acquits Hanlin in B.V.D. Case

Harry Hanlin, seaman on the ss. Montague, now in port, was acquitted of the charge of stealing three suits of B.V.D.'s before Judge Charles S. Lobingier in the United States Court yesterday afternoon. Captain Gregory Johnson of the Montague and Chief Steward Edward M. Keller were the only two witnesses produced by the prosecution. Both testified that the ship-chest on board the ship had been broken into on September 19 and that later, while making a search of the ship for the stolen goods, they found two suits of B.V.D.'s on a bunk occupied by Hanlin and discovered him wearing another.

Hanlin, testifying in his own behalf, said that he had purchased the suit he was wearing in Portland, Oregon, and knew nothing of the other two suits. They were not found on his bunk, he said, and brought six other members of the crew who were in the fo'c's'le at the time the search was made to prove it.

Another seaman named Wilson also testified that he had seen Hanlin wearing B.V.D.'s, after the ship left Portland and before the alleged theft.

MATHEMATICS
In giving judgment for acquittal Judge Lobingier pointed out that evidence in the case was purely circumstantial and not sufficient to convict. The test of whether the underwear was stolen or belonged to Hanlin hinged, he said, on the serial number. The prosecution has been unable to prove that the serial number on the underwear in question was any different from that on other underwear made and sold by the same firm. The defendant had told a plausible story to the effect that he had purchased the underwear in Portland and had brought a witness who had seen him wearing B.V.D.'s. The prosecution, on the other hand, had not been able to positively identify the underwear and there was no other course open but to acquit the defendant.

Sunday who wanted to gamble in land. These banks found money lying idle in their hands, principally as a result of the slack trade, and the best and safest method of utilizing these funds, in their opinion, was to advance on land. In ordinary times when trade is good these lending institutions would have been very chary to advance money on landed areas where no development work had been undertaken, but the order was changed last year and every proposition was accommodated.

The boom, we understand, has subsided at the present moment, and no doubt the banks would be calling in their money if not hurriedly yet slowly; in that case a depreciation in values might be expected. Most of the land companies in Hongkong seized the opportunity presented by this mad rush on the part of the Chinese to invest in real estates and sold out the bulk of their holdings. It would be extremely interesting to watch developments in this direction, for should the tide of trade turn favorably, it is almost certain that the speculative transactions would have to be liquidated and very likely, a scramble to sell might ensue.

FIGHT FANS TO SEE FINE CARD AT STADIUM TONIGHT

Carletos And De Dios Sure To Put On Fine Exhibition

Everything is in readiness for the battle at the Stadium tonight between Faustino De Dios and Kid Carletos, who will appear in the wind-up of what promises to be a very interesting bout. Both boys have been training hard and faithfully for this bout and both are in condition to repeat their performance of three weeks ago, when they put on the best scrap ever seen here.

In addition to the Carletos-De Dios fight a good semi-final has been arranged, along with a fine preliminary card. In the semi-final a fighter by the name of "Kid Dimple" will hook up with Charlie Tredwell, and it will be as good a bout as the final, according to the promoters.

At any rate, no fight fan can afford to miss the Carletos-De Dios bout. This battle, if it is anything like the previous engagement between these lads, will be worth the price of admission.

The fights will start promptly at 9:15, and Billy Bellevue, who is in charge of the program this week, says things will move swiftly from start to finish.

First Annual Rifle Meeting. The Program for this Meeting is in the hands of the printer, and will be issued shortly. A full and interesting Meeting has been arranged, and your Committee hopes a large entry will follow. The Meeting will take place on Saturday and Sunday Nov. 17 and 18, commencing at 2 o'clock sharp on the Saturday, and Sunday 9 a.m. to 12 and from 2 on. Light refreshments will be available on the Sunday, and we hope for a full day together, as the time table will have to be strictly adhered to.

Classification. Your Committee have thought it advisable to drop the idea of a separate Ladies section, and in place, let the whole of the Club fire together, thus giving a sufficient number of members to have a full classification as in the S. R. A. Classes are being worked out on shooting averages to date, and particulars will be issued very shortly. The Annual Meeting will be held on certain H-cap lines, and with the Nov. spoon shoot on Saturday, Nov. 24, we shall fire under the new classification.

Shanghai Sunday Times Cup. The first competition for this trophy will take place on Sunday Nov. 25 from 2 on.

Monthly unlimiteds. Most members attending the range put in a line extra practice after the shoots, and from Nov. on, this practice shooting can be arranged as for three Unlimited Competitions at 25, 50 and 100 yds. To be fired on signed cards and time through the month. Cards will be charged at 20 cents each or 6 for $1.00 20 percent of the proceeds will go to the Club, and the balance as prizes.

CORPS ENTRIES CLOSE. Entries for the Shanghai Volunteer Corps rifle meeting will close at noon today.

The Dog Watch

By Wesla

W. H. (Willie) Moule's feat of knocking out more than a hundred runs in the cricket game between the Inter-port team and "The Rest" last Saturday, thirty years after scoring his first century here, easily ranks as one of the most remarkable performances in the athletic history of the port. Little wonder, therefore, that those cricket devotees who had the good fortune to see the veteran chalk up his hundredth run Saturday night went dippy about it, as we say in baseball.

Scoring a century in cricket is something to get excited about, even when the scorer is a stalwart young husky with pliant muscles and a keen eye. By the same token it is something to get considerably more excited about when the scorer lacks thirty years or more of being as young as he used to be.

No wonder, therefore, that some of the staid and dignified members of the Cricket Club go far forgot themselves in their excitement Saturday as to upset their tea tables when the hundredth run went careening from Mr. Moule's trusty bat.

It was quite easy to believe Domino when he thus described their conduct when he came in to write an account of the game Saturday evening; quite easy indeed, for if the equivalent of Mr. Moule's feat had happened in a baseball game in New York or San Francisco, or at any way station the spectators wouldn't have stopped at upsetting the tea tables. More likely they would have busted them into a million splinters over each other's heads.

A guy in Chicago kicked me in the leg once, raising a big black and blue welt, for no other reason than that Jimmy Sheppard knocked a home run.

If Jimmy had knocked a century of home runs I probably would be hobbling around today on wooden pegs—no, on second thought they probably would have been asbestos, because if Jimmy had knocked a century of home runs the other guy and I would both have croaked of apoplexy on the spot.

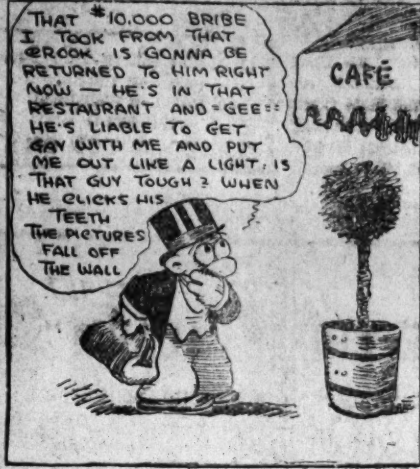

So you see the Englishman still knows how to curb his emotions.

It is a damned difficult thing to get a century in cricket; much harder than it looks. The bowler in cricket has all the tricks of the baseball pitcher in the matter of curving the ball, and putting "stuff" on it. He makes 'em hop to the right or left at will, and lays them down with what the English call "length" that makes them even harder to hit than baseball pitching. The "length" is the point at which the ball hits the ground, in terms of distance from the batter. Good bowlers strive to make the ball hit the ground at just the wrong place; either so far from the batter that he will be tempted into hitting at bad ones, or so close that he will be likely to miss it.

And one miss is apt, to be fatal. One miss and down goes the wicket! Applied to baseball, that would mean that any time the pitcher put over a called strike on the batter the latter would be out, and not only out for that inning, but out for the whole game, with no chance to retrieve himself. So you see the cricket batsman can't afford to let a single ball get by him.

Consider, also, the position of the cricket batsman with, say, anything over seventy runs already to his credit. Every cricket batsman strives for his century just as every baseball player strives for a homer; which means that when he has gone most of the distance to that goal, the rest of the way becomes increasingly harder. The mental strain is much more severe. Suppose that every time a baseball batsman stepped to the plate it was case of do or die with him—a man on third and a hit absolutely essential to tie or win the game. Everybody knows it is much harder to hit in that situation; the mental load is heavier.

Every run in cricket makes the next one a little harder to get, because the mental strain increases as the run total grows. When the total nears the coveted century the mental load—the nervous strain—is terrific.

THE more you get into this cricket game the easier it is to understand the Englishman's reticence; in their youth they get so into the habit of concentrated, intensive thinking on how to get centuries that they haven't much to say all the rest of their lives.

Over in America the school teachers and college professors keep drumming it into the heads of their students that the primary purpose of all education is to teach young minds to think. In England they save a lot of time and accomplish the same end much more pleasantly and thoroughly by simply turning the young idea loose with a cricket bat!

WELL, there isn't much one can say about Mr. Moule's feat; that is, much more to say, seeing that Domino, himself a disciple of the Alexandrines and charged with instilling into the minds of his youthful proteges the numberless and exalted virtues of British character, including the virtue of restraint, actually flew into exclamation points about it!

'Catcher's Balk' Is Added To The Rulings Of Umpires

New Orleans. An unusual play in baseball, a "catcher's balk," occurred in the game between Little Rock and New Orleans. In the seventh inning, with Gould pitching and Neiderkorn catching, New Orleans filled the bases. Mize waited the pitcher out and drew the count to three balls and two strikes. When Gould started to pitch to the batter the three base runners moved simultaneously. Tucker was almost home when the ball neared the plate. Neiderkorn stepped in front of the plate and cut off the throw, trapping Tucker. Umpire McGowan called the play a balk and allowed Tucker to score and Mize to take first base.

Assassins Are Foiled In Efforts To Murder Son Of Dr. Sun Yat-sen

Mayor Of Canton Is Target For Several Shots
While Riding In Motor Car—Aviation
Officers Killed In Explosion

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Sept. 23.—An attempt by unknown persons to assassinate Dr. Sun Fo, Mayor of Canton and only son of Dr. Sun Yat-sen, was foiled yesterday evening, when several shots were fired at him. Dr. Sun Fo was riding westward in his motorcar on the East Bund, when he was met by his assailants who were coming towards him in another motorcar. The facts point to a skillfully-planned ambush. The local press has been forbidden to refer to this incident and a strict censorship is being maintained over all publications.

A serious loss to Dr. Sun Yat-sen's aviation corps occurred on the afternoon of September 20 when Colonel Yang Sin-yat and a score of other officers and men of the corps were killed, on the East Bund, by the explosion of a motor.

The motorboat, on which they were travelling, was carrying explosives to the eastern front for the force besieging Waichow. The cause of the explosion is unknown as every occupant of the craft was killed. It was rumoured that General Chen Chung-ming's troops had mined that section of the river, but this theory is repudiated by Dr. Sun's forces, who declare that the explosion took place within their own territory. Colonel Yang was born in Honolulu, and educated in America and, while there, completed a course of aviation.

General Lin Chen-huan, the Kwangsi commander who has been taking part in the unsuccessful operations against Waichow on the side of Dr. Sun, was wounded several weeks ago. He has since died as a result of his wounds, but for some reason no official announcement has been made.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen has again left Canton for Waichow, where he will fight to a finish. He has determined to place his last stake on the capture of that city. Accord- ing to reliable information, the balance is even in the fighting in Eastern Kwangtung as the people there are in favor of General Chen Chung-ming.

The Cantonese will pass a dull Mid-Autumn Festival on September 25 for firecrackers and dinners with the special dishes of the festival will be denied them. Restaurants and fire-cracker shops have suspended business as a protest against the war taxes, and the suspension of the restaurant business is involving many other guilds, principally the poultry and the vegetable dealers, and causing no little inconvenience to travelers. As hotel proprietors are also refusing to enforce the 20 percent increase on their charges in order to support the war, it is feared that the hotels may also suspend taking new guests and advise the present ones to withdraw within a reasonable date as an act of protest.

Mr. Cheng Tien-tow, a former managing director of the Provincial Bank of Kwangtung, who has recently convicted of the embezzlement of $3,800,000 and sentenced to be shot by a special court-martial at the General Headquarters, has been pardoned by the Generalissimo, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, in consideration of his past services to the party. Mr. Cheng departed from Canton for his home in Hongkong on September 20.

Wusih Girls' School Destroyed By Blaze With One Life Lost

Wusih, Ku., Oct. 3.—The Girls' Normal School in this place was destroyed by fire late last night and one of the pupils was burned to death. The other pupils escaped from their beds and the burning building without being able to save anything but themselves. The fire was started through the carelessness of a woman servant, who allowed her bed curtains to catch on fire from a candle.

Women's Rights

American Ladies' Place
In China Not 'In
The Home'

The American Association of Tientsin has taken the lead in removing the age-old bars against the participation of women in men's affairs, by passing a resolution permitting American women membership in the Association.

In the past several applicants for membership have been denied admission on the ground that the female of the species was not eligible. The new ruling brings Tientsin, at least, into conformity with prevailing opinion in the United States.

The question has not yet been raised in Shanghai.

NEW MAXIM'S CAFE IS OPENED WITH BIG CROWD

With a big crowd in attendance, good music and a handsome setting, the New Maxim's Cafe opened up last night at 57-59 Avenue Edward VII.

The cafe is catering to family trade—no dancing partners provided—and, according to the management, the expressions of appreciation and good will which were forthcoming more than justified the policy. The cafe on its opening night provided an excellent dinner-dance and afterwards put on a No. 1 vaudeville performance.

The vaudeville numbers are to continue with a change of program next week and the management states that it will provide a happy evening for every patron.

"Safety Last"

Are you nervous?
Then don't go to see Harold Lloyd's new film, which goes on at the Apollo Theater next Sunday.

BUT!
If you're nerves are in order—go and see it by all means. "Safety Last" is Harold Lloyd's first seven-reel picture, and every foot of the seven reels contains a thrill and a laugh, such as Lloyd alone can produce. Throughout runs a plot which every spectator will follow with breathless interest.

When Lloyd finished making "Safety Last" he declared that it would be his last "thrill" picture. Possibly he was influenced in this decision by the fact that he had just married his leading lady, Mildred Davis.

Freight Market

In their fortnightly report on the freight market, Messrs. W. H. Jones and Company write as follows:
The position in the Export trade from China to Europe and America remains unchanged and we have nothing to add to our remarks of a fortnight ago.

TO UNITED STATES VIA PACIFIC

During the past few weeks there has been quite a fair amount of tea and silk going forward by mail steamers and this movement is expected to continue until the end of the tea-season and until such time as Japan is in a position to resume the export of silk—on the other hand, general cargo is conspicuous by its absence.

COASTWISE
A slight improvement has set in since last writing and, as anticipated, a few rice fixtures have been made from Wuhu Southwards.

According to latest reports from the North the crops have turned out slightly better than expected, in spite of the recent floods and it is anticipated that there will be heavy exports Southwards before the winter sets in—but this again is contingent on the political situation at the Southern ports.

Oklahoma Takes Klan War To Court

(Reuter's Service)

Oklahoma City, Oct. 3.—Upon the application of Counsel for Governor Walton, the State Court today issued an order restraining the Election Board from certifying the returns of the special

American Cotton Crop To Be 11,000,000 Bales, Is Average Of Estimates

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Aug. 31.—In view of the fine rains that have covered pretty much all of Texas in the past week or ten days, and which therefore will not all be taken into consideration in the Bureau report which is compiled as of August 25, there is a disposition in some quarters to claim that the true condition of the crop will not be shown until the September report. They believe that marked improvement has been shown in Texas and that it will be found that conditions in the belt east of the Mississippi are also better than is indicated in trade sentiment at present. It will be seen by the following table however, that such a view is out of line with the average for the past seven years which show a decline in the prospects between the August and September reports in all years but one.

Season	End Aug.	End Sept.
1916-17	11,800,000	11,837,000
1917-18	12,499,000	12,047,000
1918-19	11,137,000	11,818,000
1919-20	11,231,000	10,696,000
1920-21	12,783,000	12,123,000
1921-22	7,037,000	6,537,000
1922-23	10,575,000	10,135,000

There are some who believe that the present crop will reach 12 million bales, but the average of opinions is around eleven millions. Admitting that the yield approximates the latter figure, its distribution, in view of chaotic European conditions and the uncertainty as to buying power in this country, with wheat selling below the cost of production, and many economists claiming that the peak of prosperity has been passed, becomes a matter of considerable importance, last season we consumed at home and exported 11,145,000 bales of American lint cotton.

These are figures, which should be compared with estimates of the present crop and it is pointed out by statisticians that it is fair to assume we could not distribute any more than that during the present season out of a crop of less than 11,500,000 bales without sending prices at least as high as they went last year.

While home consumption this season may fall somewhat short of last season's total, many believe Europe can hardly take less, owing to the inroads that have been made in the stocks of European mills which at the end of last season were down to 943,000 bales, compared with 1,924,000 bales of American at the end of the previous season.

Should there be a settlement of the Ruhr problem European takings could quite easily mount up to a figure that would disturb American mills and doubtless find expression in a considerable advance. At the moment, however, the best that many conservative traders can find is a pretty even balance between supply and demand, with nothing to justify any extremes of price either way.

Hedge pressure here during the week has reflected the steadily increasing movement of new cotton in the Southwest. As yet domestic mills have not been eager buyers of the new crop, but if the business in cloth continues much longer on the lines it has developed in the past ten days, there must logically be a revival of demand from mills as their stocks are known to be light. Most of them are adopting a hand-to-mouth policy, at present awaiting the flow of new cotton in volume in order to gain an idea of how it is being absorbed.

There are many reports to the effect that numbers of both New England and Southern mills will resume work after Labor Day, either part or full time to meet the increased demands for goods. One large New Orleans commission House takes the position that as the tropical storm period is close at hand, the buying of cotton on all good breaks is advisable, although they anticipate no real bull campaign until at least a goodly portion of the crop has been marketed and the supply and demand situation becomes more clearly defined.

Meantime an intensive drive for new members has been started this week by the Southern co-operative associations. Alabama looks for twice as much cotton under co-operative control this season as last; in Arkansas, 2,000 new members have signed up since July 1, while Georgia reports a gain of 20,000 new members since January.

Much attention is being directed this season to the newly opened

THE OLD LANDMARK
He was old and feeble and his hands of life were nearly run out. He walked with faltering steps along one of the most fashionable avenues in the city of Houston. He had left the city twenty years ago, when it was little more than a thriving village, and now, weary of wandering throughout the world and filled with an unutterable longing to once more rest his eyes upon the scenes of his youth, he had come back to find a bustling modern city covering the site of his former home. He sought in vain for some familiar object, some old time sight that would recall memories of bygone days. All had changed. On the site where his father's cottage

Every Morning at Breakfast take a draught of SANATOGEN

This will give you that extra nerve-energy which makes you feel "fit" and fresh all day and it will save you from Heat prostration

SANATOGEN in the morning means a better day's work—means that you feel brighter, fresher, and keener all day, in spite of the exhausting heat, while your powers of resistance to typhoid, cholera, dysentery and nervous disorders will be enormously increased.

TRY IT!

SANATOGEN'S power to increase nerve-energy has been definitely proved, in the words of Sir Charles A. Cameron, C.B., M.D., etc. President of the Royal Institute of Public Health:

Sanatogen is an excellent nerve-food of the highest nutritive value, easily and completely digested.

GET A BOTTLE TO-DAY
ALL CHEMISTS SELL SANATOGEN

Never forget that Sanatogen is a food, not a medicine or a "secret remedy." It increases nerve-energy by feeding the nerves—not by goading them with drugs or stimulants. Its action is as natural as that of any ordinary food: it must do good, and it cannot do harm. That is why doctors give it even to babies. And that is why so many Europeans in the East take Sanatogen regularly, all the year round—not as an occasional "tonic," but as a part of their daily diet. You should do likewise, if you want to keep your nerve-energy at the highest pitch, and to avoid the debilitating effects of the great heat had stood a stately mansion reared its walls; the vacant lot where he had played when a boy, was covered with modern buildings. Magnificent lawns stretched on either hand, running back to palatial dwellings. Not one of the sights of his boyhood days was left.

Suddenly, with a glad cry, he rushed forward with renewed vigor. He saw before him, untouched by the hand of man and unchanged by time, an old familiar object around which he had played when a child. He reached out his arms and ran toward it with a deep sigh of recognition.

Later on they found him asleep, with a peaceful smile on his face, lying on the old garbage pile in the middle of the street, the sole relic of his boyhood's recollections.

The regular annual statement from the revenue officers in North Carolina comes in on time: viz: that moonshining is broken up in that state. However, it is 10 to 1 that if a man leaves his jug and his money at a regular place behind a rock, he will find it full when he comes back.

The Call Of The East

To the uninitiated
This tale is here related,
In the East—Ye Griffins listen one and all:
It is a point of etiquette
The Boys have never broken yet,
Or obeying but the Masters—of the Call.

"Oh, Boy, bring me this
And Boy, bring me that,
And Boy, bring me everything Including Master's hat!"

From wives to socks and collar buttons
Or all the needs of saints and gluttons,
It matters not the order if the proper tone employ:
They'll leave their dear old mothers
And forget to wait on others,
To respond to one who knows the Call of—Boy!

"Oh Boy, tell the Missie
That I'll be late tonight:
And Boy, you no savvy if
The Master comes in tight!"

It is not Buoy nor Boi—
But more like "Ship ahoy!"
Commanding, like Napoleon, strong and proud:
'Tis not the act of shouting hoarse
But comes to those in time of course,
Who will live and pay the piper if allowed!

"Oh, boy, bring the towel
And Boy, bring the soap—
And Boy, you can rub me down—
Without 'you there's no hope!"

The Boy is here my saviour,
I'm such a naughty thing;
At Home perhaps a plumber
But in the East a King!

When I go up to Heaven
And Peter frowns on me,
I'm sure my voice will greet him with—
"Oh, BOY, bring the KEY!"

JOHN KYOTO.

What Women Wear

Little Separate Jackets Present
Themselves in Alluring Variety
For Your Autumn Wardrobe.

The little jacket plays a leading role in the wardrobes of this Autumn.

It may serve as a sort of first aid in the struggle for smart and economical dressing—or it may lie as a stumbling block in your path.

Don't think that you can buy a number of little jackets of various colors, fabrics and cuts just at random and then have them on hand to make use of with this skirt or that, various sorts of blouses and different sorts of frocks. Don't think that by toppling off a last season's frock with one of the new jackets you have achieved up to date smartness. The only safe way to proceed is to regard any one of these possible jackets as an integral part of some costume that you are assembling. It is very necessary this year to plan your raiment from the heel of your slipper to the rim of your hat as part of a definite picture, for hats and shoes are showing an affinity this season, and sometimes hats and scarfs or gilets are sold together. One's blouse must be exactly suited to go with the jacket or else there will be discrepancy at collar and wrist line and the jacket has a very definite role to play with the skirt.

Red shoes became such a usual sight in many places as to appear actually commonplace. Men no longer gasped when their stenographers reported for duty at nine in the morning so shod. Of course there was the red hat to match. Green shoes followed in the wake of the craze for green hats and then it seemed for a time as if the blue shoe and hat combination was having it all its own way. In the meantime white shoes with black trimming have been launched in anticipation of a vogue for white and black, and the woman who clings to beige and light brown knows that the matching shoe is always in good taste. Meantime black shoes are hardly prehistoric, though some women seem to regard them as decidedly passe. But when black shoes are worn the stocking is usually nude or fawn or gray.

In the interesting costume ensemble shown in the sketch blue is the color of the felt hat, while the little jacket is of checked blue and gray. The skirt is of gray and the blouse under the jacket of pure white linen. The shoes might have been blue without marring the picture, but the young woman who worked on the smart combination chose black laced shoes instead wearing them with gray stockings exactly matching the gray of the skirt.

British Women's Association Notes

The Association has passed an extremely busy week; its two big tasks, that of Relief to the Earthquake Sufferers, and of pressing on the work of "Ye Olde English Fayre" absorb all volunteers. The splendid contributions to the Relief Funds and the response to appeals for clothing, trunks, etc. have enabled the carrying on of the relief most satisfactorily, and also of further consignments of People who used to come to the Del Monte once or twice a week now come every night.

Their only complaint is that we didn't tell them about Victor Galvin's cooking before.

There are many newcomers in the crowds, too. They all express surprise over the Del Monte entertainment features.

By the way, have you seen the new ballet?

Marine Corps Commander Has New Aide

Brig. Gen. Logan Feland

RIGADIER-GENERAL Logan Feland, United States Marine Corps, hero of Belleau Wood and a dozen other bloody fields of France, has been appointed aide to Major-General John A. Hejune, commanding the famous corps. General Feland was formerly head of the Division of Operations and Training of the Corps and succeeds Major-General W. C. Neville as assistant to the commanding general. He has served with the Marines since 1899 and was among the first to sail for France, where he won the D. S. C. and the D. S. M. and the rank of Officer in the French Legion of Honor.

order that they may be present.

Gifts for the various stalls can be received at Headquarters, 12 Kiukiang Road, but the Relief Work has already transformed the rooms into a throbbing hive of activity, and whenever possible, it will be more helpful if donations be sent direct to the ladies whose addresses we publish:

THE VILLAGE SHOPPE

Several ladies who are responsible for this stall at the Fayre on October 26 and 27 are helping with the Earthquake Relief work. We therefore ask for special help of any kind for it. We can sell articles of any description at the Village Shoppe.

DINNER TICKETS

Kindly apply to the Secretary of the "Fayre" 463 Avenue Foch, or to Headquarters, 12 Kiukiang Road, for table reservations and tickets for "Ye Olde English Dinner" which will be one of the tempting features of Saturday evening (the 27th); these tickets being $2.50 each only.

Mrs. Hamlin, 102 Yu Yuen Road, issues tickets for the attractive Japanese dinner arranged also for Saturday evening.

The tickets at $1.00 for the Cabaret Dance which is to follow these dinner parties may be obtained from Mrs. Massey, 23 Great Western Road.

The Entertainment Committee holds its final preparatory and instructive meeting for the Fayre at Headquarters on October 18 at 5:15 p.m. Will all members make an especial effort to attend.

HOSPITAL AID DEPARTMENT

The meetings of this Department were resumed on Tuesday, September 4. A splendid report of work done during the Summer was presented by several ladies. The Department is especially indebted to Mrs. J. D. Forrest who was responsible for 1154 articles including some 900 roller bandages. Mrs. Forrest and Mrs. McGavin sent parcels off to several hospitals, and a useful parcel was sent to Dr. J. M. Paterson whose hospital at Tsao-shih was destroyed by brigands. Letters of appreciation, and appeals continue to come in. So much so that it is impossible, without a considerable increase in the number of workers to provide one half the help asked for. If only our readers could realise the sufferings of millions in this land because of the lack of medical aid there would not be wanting willing helpers who could give an hour or a few hours a week to help send hospital requisites to the self sacrificing Doctors and Nurses who are handicapped because of lack of the equipment which we women of Shanghai could often send them. A nurse in Hankow writes: "The pieces of cloth (samples of print) I am using for spreading ointments and fomenta. Our greatest need is for old cotton." Again we ask the ladies of Shanghai to remember this work when they have any old white cotton to throw away.

NEW MEMBERS

Miss E. F. Morris, Miss D. Thomas, Mrs. J. S. C. Cooper, Mrs. Alyward, Mrs. Lawson, Miss Lindsay, Miss F. W. Henderson, Mrs. A. G. Collins, Miss R. L. Carter, Mrs. W. H. Davies, Miss K. Thomas, Mrs. J. Cornfield, Mrs. V. Field, Mrs. E. M. Cook, Miss E. Stephens, Mrs. E. A. Sykes, Mrs. G. Frankland, Mrs. T. G. Chambers, Miss Ethel Graham.

Attention is again drawn to the Farewell "At Home" to Mrs. Simms, to be held at Headquarters on Friday, October 12, from 4 to 7 o'clock which it is hoped all members will attend.

MANY HOMELESS AS FIRE SWEEPS BULGAR CAPITAL

Sofia, Oct. 3.—A fierce fire raged in Sofia today. It is believed that the blaze originated in an explosion of chemicals left behind by the Communists when they were recently routed by government forces.

The flames were finally controlled, but only after the most important district around the railroad station had been completely destroyed.

Thousands have been rendered homeless by the conflagration and the government is taking measures to afford them relief. About 2,000 are now housed in army tents and many others in numerous temporary shelters improvised to meet the emergency.

DE LESSEPS DEAD

(Reuters' Service)

Paris, Oct. 3.—The death is announced of M. Charles de Lesseps, administrator of the Suez Canal Company.

M. Charles de Lesseps was sentenced together with his father, M. Ferdinand de Lesseps to five years' imprisonment in 1892 in connection with the Panama Canal failure, but was released a few months later and resided in England for three years owing to the feeling
